

Welcome!

Congratulations on making the decision to be a child care provider. Providing care for children is very rewarding. You will be offering an important service for young children and families. You will also be providing an important service for your community.

Over the next several months, you will be making many decisions. How do I share information with families? What hours will I be open? How often will I be paid? What activities will I do with the children? Are there resources to help with costs to me and to families? These are just a few of the questions to answer. We are here to help you with ideas to make your decision-making easier.

The KCCTO-KITS Infant-Toddler Specialist Network (ITSN) child care specialists can provide a variety of supports, services and resources and our services are free. We are available to answer your questions by phone, text or email. We can visit with you at your home or center. We are here to help you be successful.

Our program, KCCTO-KITS ITSN, also offers online resources. Kansas Child Care Training Opportunities (KCCTO) provides online training at a very low cost. The course schedules and descriptions can be found at www.kccto.org. Kansas Inservice Trainings System (KITS) has many resources at www.kskits.org that provide you quick access to information when you need it.
